

Arbor Day

Name _____ Date _____

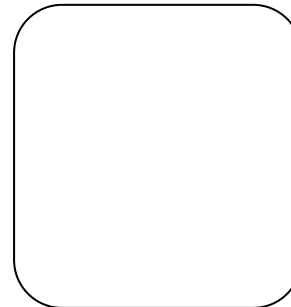

Did you know that Arbor Day is a holiday to remind people all over the world to plant and care for trees? Trees are very important to the earth to provide shelter for animals, clean air to breathe, wood for building houses and decoration to the Earth. When trees are cut down to build houses, for firewood or for any reason, we should replace the tree with a sapling. Replacing the trees makes it possible for more trees to grow so that more trees can be cut and used for what is needed without fear that the earth will run out of trees. Since trees clean the air we breathe, are used to build the houses we live in and even the paper we write on, they are very important to our world.

Arbor Day is celebrated at different times across the earth because the seasons are different, but each tree planted promises to replenish what cutting one down takes away. Some countries have festivals for planting and caring for trees. It is an important day to teach people to plant trees and to take care of them as a way of taking care of our world. Planting one tree at a time can help save our planet.

Draw a picture
in each box of how trees are used after being cut down.

What are three reasons trees
are important to earth.

- 1.
- 2.
- 3.

Why is Arbor Day celebrated at different times in different places?

How could you help the earth this Arbor Day? _____