Directions: Read the story. Then rewrite it below, using adjectives and adverbs to make it more interesting. Use the back of this page if you need more space.

It was Wanda's first day at her job as a waitress. Wanda wore a uniform. She took orders from customers. She brought the customers food. One man ordered a hamburger. Wanda brought him the hamburger. But on her way, she slipped and the burger flew off of the plate in pieces. Wanda ran around trying to catch the pieces. When she put the burger down in front of the customer, he looked at Wanda and said, "Why is my hamburger in between two pickle slices? What happened to the bun?"
