A Picture Worth 87 Words

It was a dark night but the darkness was broken by the stars and the moon, which were shining brightly in the sky. Carla's mom had allowed her and her best friend Jill to set up a tent and sleep outside. It was the first time that either of them had ever slept outside alone and they were both excited and scared. They listened to the night sounds around them; the crickets chirping, a dog barking, the leaves rustling. They both thought that it was very peaceful.
