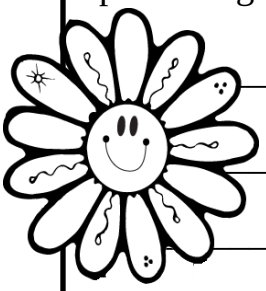
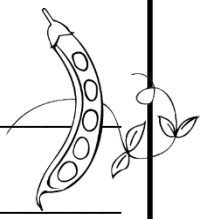
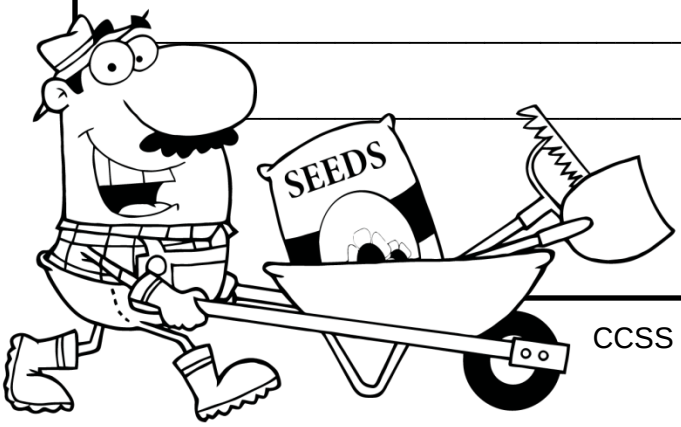
Planning a Garden

Have you ever planted a garden or helped someone else plant a garden? If so then you already know that planting a garden isn't as simple as taking a bunch of seeds and putting them in dirt. Planting a garden takes planning and thought. You need to decide what kind of garden you are going to plant. Are you planning a vegetable garden, or a flower garden? If you are planting vegetables, which ones do you want to grow? If you are planting flowers which ones will you plant?






In the space below write about which vegetables or flowers you would plant in your garden. Explain why you chose them and why you think they are the best plants to grow.
