

Name _____

Expressing Time with Present Perfect

Use the Present Perfect tense to indicate that something has happened at some point in time before now. The exact time at which the action happened is not important. To limit the period of time you are looking in for an experience, use expressions like: in the last week, in the last year, this week, this month, so far, up to now, etc.

EXAMPLE: Have you eaten any vegetables this week?

DIRECTIONS: Use each cue below to write a sentence in present perfect tense.

1. go, Spain, in the last year
2. watch, television program, this past month
3. seen, friend, six times, this week alone
4. had, flu, the past three years in a row
5. earn, past decade, three different degrees
6. car, break down, three times, just in the last week.

1. I have been to Spain in the last year.
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____
5. _____
6. _____
