

Read The Sentence

Read each set of sentences. Then choose the sentence that best combines them.

1. I needed to get some sleep. I had a test first thing in the morning.
 - A. I needed to get some sleep because I had a test first thing in the morning.
 - B. I needed to get some sleep; furthermore, I had a test first thing in the morning.
 - C. I needed to get some sleep although I had a test first thing in the morning.
 - D. I needed to get some sleep; therefore, I had a test first thing in the morning.

2. I wanted to see him more often. He lived pretty far away.
 - A. I wanted to see him more often because he lived pretty far away.
 - B. I wanted to see him more often; furthermore, he lived pretty far away.
 - C. I wanted to see him more often although he lived pretty far away.
 - D. I wanted to see him more often; therefore, he lived pretty far away.

3. I wanted the freshest tomatoes. I decided to grow my own.
 - A. I wanted the freshest tomatoes because I decided to grow my own.
 - B. I wanted the freshest tomatoes; furthermore, I decided to grow my own.
 - C. I wanted the freshest tomatoes although I decided to grow my own.
 - D. I wanted the freshest tomatoes; therefore, I decided to grow my own.

4. We were late for the game. We left in plenty of time to get there.
 - A. We were late for the game because we left in plenty of time to get there.
 - B. We were late for the game; furthermore, we left in plenty of time to get there.
 - C. We were late for the game although we left in plenty of time to get there.
 - D. We were late for the game; therefore, we left in plenty of time to get there.

5. Jane passed the test. She got the best grade in the class.
 - A. Jane passed the test because she got the best grade in the class.
 - B. Jane passed the test; furthermore, she got the best grade in the class.
 - C. Jane passed the test although she got the best grade in the class.
 - D. Jane passed the test; therefore, she got the best grade in the class.

6. Dylan cut the grass. It was just cut two days ago.
 - A. Dylan cut the grass because it was just cut two days ago.
 - B. Dylan cut the grass; furthermore, it was just cut two days ago.
 - C. Dylan cut the grass although it was just cut two days ago.

