It’s a Living

DIRECTIONS: Interview an adult you respect and admire about what his or her typical day at work is like. Pay close attention to the words he or she uses when they are talking about their work. If you don’t understand some of the words, then ask questions. But use their precise words when explaining what they do for a living.

My jobs are called “gigs.” That means people pay me to come out and play music.