

Danger!

Think about a time when you had a narrow escape from danger. What happened? Why was it dangerous? How did it turn out? Write the introduction, and only the introduction, of a story about your experience. How will you capture your reader's attention? Your introduction should both clearly introduce the topic and preview what is to come.

