As you read, be on the lookout for puzzling or unfamiliar words. Write them down as you find them, then look up each word in the dictionary.

Additionally, write down other words that stand out to you. These could be words that are repeated or that are used in an unusual way.

Be prepared to present your words to the group. Determine how you will present the words, and write down your plan. Your plan should enable your group members to locate and discuss these words.
