

Create Your Own Story

It's time for your cat's annual trip to the vet. When the vet sees your cat, he tells you that your cat has gotten too fat.

"You will need to give him less food," the vet tells you. "It is not healthy for your cat to be so fat.

By the time you get home, it is time for dinner. Instead of giving your cat a can of food like you usually do, you only give him half a can. Your cat looks up at you and says, "This diet stinks!"

What do you do when your cat talks for the first time?

Your cat eats the food that you gave him, and then goes up into his cat tree to sulk. You tell your parents that your cat can talk. Your mother doesn't believe you. Your father wants to take videos of your cat and put them on YouTube. What happens next?
